About This Book

Until 1763 Prince Edward Island was inhabited by the French Acadians which changed dramatically with the arrival of the English. The Catholic religion remained and two others were also predominant in the 19th century, that of Anglicanism and the Presbyterian church. This work concerns non-Catholic weddings in the early years of the island. About 1, 700 unions are included herein. There is some genealogical value to these records although parents' names were not often included in early marriage registers.

The Index By Category

GROOM: In former times names were written as they sounded. The given and family names of the groom appear how they were written in the registers. For instance, John Smith may be listed as Jon Smyth. Middle names are included if noted in a given entry as well as usual affixations as junr (junior) or Esq/Esqre (Esquire). Also, just like today, in the 19th century names were sometimes written in abbreviated form. In this index they are: Alexr=Alexander, Benjn=Benjamin, Saml=Samuel, Thos=Thomas, and Wm=William. In a few cases only surnames are presented in a marriage entry.

BRIDE: In former times names were written as they sounded. The given and family names of the bride appear how they were written in the register. For instance, Jane Smith may be listed as Jayn Smyth. Middle names are included if noted in a given entry as well as the sometimes listed affixation of Miss. Also, just like today, in the 19th century names were sometimes written in abbreviated form. In this index they are: Cathn=Catherine, Elizth=Elizabeth and Margt=Margaret. In some cases a name may be written like 'Mary Jones alias Smith'. Mary Jones is her maiden name and 'alias Smith' refers to her widowed name. Rarely, a bride's first, last, or even full names were omitted from a record.

DATE: This refers to the date the marriage ceremony was performed. In some cases the dates are not clear or not fully written. In a few cases they are not included at all. The registers are not always in perfect chronological order and this should be borne in mind when searching for an entry.

PARISH/PLACE: A parish such as St. Paul's, Charlottetown can cover many miles and this means that not all weddings were performed in the parish church. For example: Charles Bier and Elizabeth Clark were married at the United Church, Bedeque in 1838 but the ceremony actually took place in Tyron some 20 kilometers away.

COUNTY: This refers simply to the county location of a given parish or church.

BANNS/LICENSE: In British Canada Banns or License was a way of permission to marry. A bann is simply a public reading or posting by a clergyman of the names of the parties desiring to contract marriage so that, if an impediment exists to the upcoming wedding, persons may come forward to tell the authorities. If no legal blockage to the marriage is found, usually after three readings or a certain amount of time, the ceremony goes ahead. A bann is religious whereas a license is civil and is usually obtained by an accompanying fee from the government. In this index column besides (B) Bann and (L) License may appear (NS) Not Stated.

SOURCE: The sources in this column are found below in Online Digitized Registers and Source Locations. The two types of registers consulted for this index were Anglican/Church of England (AN) and Presbyterian/United Church (PR). In a few cases, as is noted in this column, some persons marrying before a Presbyterian minister were wed with the rites and ceremonies of the Anglican church.
